

Important note:

1. BEA Union Investment Global Flexi Allocation Fund (the "Fund") seeks to achieve medium to long term capital growth and income through investing in a diversified portfolio consisting of global equity securities and/or debt securities in global markets.
2. The Fund invests in emerging markets and may be subject to higher liquidity and volatility risks.
3. The Fund invests directly in equities, REITs, ETFs and managed funds, and is thus subject to the risks generally associated with such asset classes, including but not limited to liquidity of the asset class, changes in investment sentiment, political environment, economic, business and social conditions in the global markets.
4. The Fund may invest in below investment grade or non-rated debt securities including high yield bonds, which are subject to greater credit and liquidity risks than higher-rated securities.
5. The manager may at its discretion make distributions from income and/or capital in respect of the distributing classes of the Fund. Investors should note that the distributions paid out of capital amount to a return or withdrawal of part of the unitholder's original investment or from any capital gains attributable to that original investment. Such distribution may result in an immediate reduction of the net asset value per unit.
6. In terms of currency hedged class units, adverse exchange rate fluctuations between the base currency of the Fund and the class currency of the currency hedged class units may result in a decrease in return and/or loss of capital for unitholders. Over-hedged or under-hedged positions may arise and there can be no assurance that these currency hedged class units will be hedged at all times or that the manager will be successful in employing the hedge. In terms of RMB classes of units, RMB is currently not a freely convertible currency as it is subject to foreign exchange control policies of the Chinese government. There is also no assurance that the RMB will not be subject to devaluation. Investors may still be subject to the RMB currency exchange risk.
7. The Fund may enter into futures contracts for hedging and investment purposes. Given the leverage effect embedded in futures contracts, the Fund may be exposed to significant losses.
8. Investors should not make an investment decision based solely on this material.

Fund Features

- Prudent selection of stable, global large-cap equities with capital appreciation potential. Flexible allocation across Asian high yield bonds and global investment grade corporate bonds.

Market Review and Outlook

Equities

- Global equity markets stabilised ahead of the G20 summit as investors anticipate more constructive negotiation over trade conflicts.
- U.S. equities rebounded broadly in November except for the technology sector, which experienced a selloff by investors. The energy sector was hit by a sharp fall in crude oil prices.
- European equities underperformed in November, with uncertainty over the Brexit deal still the major concern. At the same time, core inflation in the eurozone fell short of market expectation, with economic confidence continuing to decline for the eleventh month.
- Japanese equities rose slightly in U.S. dollar terms due to yen appreciation. Industrial production reported was stronger than expected in November despite recent concerns about slowing economic growth and trade conflicts.

Bonds

- The U.S. credit spread has started to widen due to stretched valuations, risk-off sentiment, and increased supply. On the other hand, dovish comments from the Federal Reserve's chairman have boosted market sentiment by encouraging expectations of a slower rate hike schedule.

Investment Strategy

Equities

- There was no major change to the Fund's portfolio in November.
- The Fund has a neutral stance on regional allocation, seeking to invest in companies with appealing growth and reasonable valuations in their industries. It has overweight in the healthcare sector and an underweight in the IT and financial sectors.

Bonds

- The Fund's allocation in bonds remains at 40-45%.
- We have remained overweight in defensive names and are sticking to bonds with better credit quality.
- The Fund is tactically participating in investment grade and high yield new issues which can deliver capital appreciation.
