

Important note:

1. BEA Union Investment Asian Bond and Currency Fund (the "Fund") seeks regular interest income, capital gains and currency appreciation from an actively managed portfolio primarily investing in debt securities denominated in Asian or other currencies and primarily issued by Asian government or corporate entities.
2. The Fund is subject to general investment risk, Asian market concentration risk, emerging market risk and currency risk.
3. The Fund invests in debt securities and is subject to risks in interest rates, credit/counterparty, downgrading, below investment grade and non-rated securities, volatility and liquidity, valuation and sovereign debt and credit rating which may adversely affect the price of the debt securities.
4. The manager may at its discretion make distributions from income and/or capital in respect of the distributing classes of the Fund. Distributions paid out of capital amount to a return or withdrawal of part of the unitholder's original investment or from any capital gains attributable to that original investment. Such distribution may result in an immediate reduction of the net asset value per unit.
5. In terms of currency hedged class units, adverse exchange rate fluctuations between the base currency of the Fund and the class currency of the currency hedged class units may result in a decrease in return and/or loss of capital for unitholders. Over-hedged or under-hedged positions may arise, and there can be no assurance that the currency hedged class units will be hedged at all times or that the manager will be successful in employing the hedge.
6. RMB is currently not a freely convertible currency as it is subject to exchange controls and restrictions. Non-RMB based (e.g. Hong Kong) investors are exposed to foreign exchange risk, and there is no guarantee that the value of RMB against the investors' base currencies (for example HKD) will not depreciate. Any depreciation of the RMB could adversely affect the value of investors' investments.
7. The Fund may use financial derivative instruments for hedging and investment purposes which may not achieve the intended purpose and may result in significant losses. Risks associated with derivative instruments include counterparty/ credit risk, liquidity risk, valuation risk, volatility risk and over-the-counter transaction risk.
8. Investors should not make an investment decision based solely on this material.

BEA Union Investment Asian Bond and Currency Fund ("ABC")

Fund Flows into Asia from Global and Emerging Markets

Highlights:

1. Vaccine likely continues to support global economic recovery.
2. Spread between Asia and global high yield remained high
3. The fund will focus more on credit selection and reduce names with high credit risk.

Fund Features

- The Fund adopts an unconstrained strategy, with maximum flexibility allowed in allocating assets among corporate bonds, government bonds, high yield bonds and investment grade bonds, while actively hunting for alpha opportunities.
- Seeks stable dividends and exploits the appreciation potential of Asian bonds.

Market Review and OutlookInterest Rate Market

- In January, the U.S. Treasury yields were largely stable. The 10-year U.S. Treasury yield traded in a range between 0.92% and 1.15% and closed higher for the month. We expected the U.S. Treasury yields will trade upwards on the back on reflation expectation and normalization.

Asian High Yield Bonds

- Market was affected by the sharp rise in treasury yield in the beginning of January, which was in turn triggered by fear about tapering discussion from the Fed.

- The amount of fund flows into Asia from Emerging market increased. India financial and industrial names outperformed as a result of improving commodities prices and positive credit events.
- Chinese property bond underperformed the most given large amount of issuance, negative credit events and onshore tightening.

Asian Local Currency Bonds

- The Asian local bond markets corrected in January amid the rebound of global yields on the back of optimism on economic recovery and rising inflation expectation.
- Asian currencies corrected against the U.S. Dollar in general, with the exception of Renminbi on the back of decent recovery momentum in China.

Market Outlook

- Despite the rebound of new COVID-19 cases in some of the Asian countries, the impact on the economy is less severe than the previous outbreak. Vaccine likely continues the economic recovery globally.
- We are optimistic to Asia High Yield especially on India financial and industrial names which benefit from strong interim result figures and strong commodity prices.

Investment Strategy

- The fund will focus more on credit selection and reduce names with high credit risk.
- The fund has been picking up bonds with new issue premium in the primary market on high yield and investment grade names. It increased allocation to commodity sector and switched out from Chinese property.

- Source: Lipper, as at 31 January 2021. The quoted return is for A USD (Distributing) launched on 28 August 2008. Performance is calculated in the respective class of denominated currencies on a NAV to NAV basis. Gross income is re-invested.
- Annualized dividend yield = (dividend of February x 12) / last month end NAV x 100%. Please refer to dividend notice available on website for dividend composition information and details. The manager may at its discretion make distributions from income and/or capital in respect of the distributing classes of the Fund. Such distribution may result in an immediate reduction of the net asset value per unit. Dividend only applies to distributing classes and is not guaranteed. Past dividend record is not indicative of future dividend likely to be achieved. Please note that a positive distribution yield does not imply a positive return. Investors should not make any investment decision solely based on information contained above.
