

Important note:

1. BEA Union Investment China Gateway Fund (the "Fund") seeks medium to long term capital growth and income through investing primarily in equity securities and/or debt securities, that are either (a) traded in China or (b) issued by entities incorporated in China or entities which have significant operations in or assets in, or derive significant portion of revenue or profits from China.
2. The Fund is subject to general investment risk, China market concentration risk, equity market risk, asset allocation risk, risks associated with stock connects, risks associated with China interbank bond market, China tax risk, risks of investing in other funds, emerging market risk and currency risk.
3. The Fund invests in debts securities and is subject to risks in interest rates, credit/counterparty, downgrading, below investment grade and non-rated securities, volatility and liquidity, valuation and sovereign debt, credit rating and credit rating agency risk, which may adversely affect the price of the debt securities.
4. The manager may at its discretion make distributions from income and/or capital in respect of the distributing classes of the Fund. Distributions paid out of capital amount to a return or withdrawal of part of the unitholder's original investment or from any capital gains attributable to that original investment. Such distribution may result in an immediate reduction of the net asset value per unit.
5. In terms of currency hedged class units, adverse exchange rate fluctuations between the base currency of the Fund and the class currency of the currency hedged class units may result in a decrease in return and/or loss of capital for unitholders. Over-hedged or under-hedged positions may arise and there can be no assurance that the currency hedged class units will be hedged at all times or that the manager will be successful in employing the hedge.
6. RMB is currently not a freely convertible currency as it is subject to exchange controls and restrictions. Non-RMB based (e.g. Hong Kong) investors are exposed to foreign exchange risk and there is no guarantee that the value of RMB against the investors' base currencies (for example HKD) will not depreciate. Any depreciation of the RMB could adversely affect the value of investors' investments.
7. The Fund may use financial derivative instruments for hedging and investment purposes which may not achieve the intended purpose and may result in significant losses. Risks associated with derivative instruments include counterparty/ credit risk, liquidity risk, valuation risk, volatility risk and over-the-counter transaction risk.
8. Investors should not make an investment decision based solely on this material.

Chinese Equities Hold Up Well

Highlights:

1. Chinese equities hold up well on improving economic data
2. Financials outperform the market due to more ADR secondary listing in Hong Kong
3. Chinese property sector shows positive development

Fund

- A one-stop solution for investing in Chinese stocks and bonds. Access to onshore and offshore investment channels, providing a way to capture investment opportunities in Chinese stocks and bonds fully.
- Flexible allocation in stocks and bonds to balance risk and return.

Market Review and Outlook
Equities

- Both the Chinese onshore and offshore equities were up in June. Despite the rising concern on the second outbreak of COVID-19 in China and the U.S., markets generally held up well on improving economic data and further policy easing.
- In terms of sectors, there was sharp performance divergence between the new and old economy stocks, information technology, healthcare and internet outperformed the market, while infrastructure, materials and utilities underperformed.
- In June, the Hong Kong stock market rebounded as there was no drastic move from the U.S. following the imposition of national security law in Hong Kong. The share performance of retailers and landlord rebounded after the relaxation of social curbs. Diversified financials outperformed the market due to more ADR secondary listing in Hong Kong.

Bonds

- The reopening of the economy continued to be the focus of investors. The stronger-than-expected employment, retail sector and home sales data supported the buoyant market sentiment. Chinese high yield property sector continued to record positive return, and recovery is on track for contract sales, the valuation of Chinese high yield property bonds had trended closer to the pre-sell-off level in March.
- We are cautiously optimistic towards the Chinese high yield bond market, especially the positive development of the Chinese property sector. At the same time, we are mindful of the re-emerging China-U.S. tension and increasing number of new COVID-19 cases.

Investment Strategy

Equities

- The Fund took profit from the property management sector and added into Chinese insurance stocks to take advantage of the favourable domestic yield environment.
- We adopted a more balanced approach for the portfolio, slighted added into sectors which are the beneficiaries of the pandemic, such as the internet, while maintained our exposure on the stocks tied to the reopening theme.
- The rising COVID-19 cases in certain parts of the world may dim the hopes on further economic reopening and recovery. We are mindful of the new wave of infections which could unnerve the market.

Bonds

- The Fund tactically traded in the Chinese high yield property sector to capture the volatility due to escalating tension between China and the U.S.
- The Fund has been picking up investment grade bonds with new issue premium in the primary market. We have selectively diversified into solid investment grade names with attractive valuations and trimmed the names with credit concerns.
