

Important note:

1. BEA Union Investment China High Yield Income Fund (the "Fund") seeks to achieve medium to long term capital growth and regular income by primarily (i.e. at least 70% of its net asset value) investing in high yield debt securities that are issued or guaranteed by entities which are incorporated in China or have significant operations in or assets in, or derive significant portion of revenue or profits from China.
2. The Fund may invest significantly in below investment grade or non-rated debt securities, including high yield bonds, which are generally subject to lower liquidity, higher volatility and greater risk of loss of principal and interest than higher rated securities.
3. The Fund invests in debts or fixed income securities are exposed to interest rates, credit/counterparty, downgrading, volatility and liquidity, valuation and sovereign debt and credit rating risks which may adversely affect the price of the debt securities.
4. The Fund's investments are concentrated in China. The value of the Fund may be more volatile than more diversified portfolio investments.
5. The manager may at its discretion make distributions from income and/or capital in respect of the distributing classes of the Fund. Distributions paid out of capital amount to a return or withdrawal of part of the unitholder's original investment or from any capital gains attributable to that original investment. Such distribution may result in an immediate reduction of the net asset value per unit.
6. In terms of currency hedged class units, adverse exchange rate fluctuations between the base currency of the Fund and the class currency of the currency hedged class units may result in a decrease in return and/or loss of capital for unitholders. Over-hedged or under-hedged positions may arise and there can be no assurance that the currency hedged class units will be hedged at all times or that the manager will be successful in employing the hedge.
7. RMB is currently not a freely convertible currency as it is subject to exchange controls and restrictions. Non-RMB based (e.g. Hong Kong) investors are exposed to foreign exchange risk and there is no guarantee that the value of RMB against the investors' base currencies (for example HKD) will not depreciate. Any depreciation of the RMB could adversely affect the value of investors' investments.
8. The Fund may acquire financial derivative instruments for hedging and investment purposes. Given the leverage effect embedded in financial derivative instruments, the Fund may be exposed to significant losses.
9. Investors should not make an investment decision based solely on this material.

Chinese High Yield Property Bonds Extend the Gains

Highlights:

- 1. Chinese high yield property names extend the gains
- 2. Inflows to Chinese high yield bonds set to continue
- 3. The Fund will rotate into sectors with attractive valuations

Fund Features

- The Fund targets to generate additional return through dynamic trading.
- Managed by seasoned investment professionals to ensure selection of China high yield bonds.

Market Review and Outlook
Interest Rate Market

- In May, the U.S. Treasury yields were mostly stable. The 10-year U.S. Treasury yield traded in a very narrow range between 0.61% and 0.72% and closed flattish for the month. We expect the U.S. Treasury yields will show a gradual upward tendency due to risk-on sentiment and economy reopening.

Chinese High Yield Bonds

- Asian high yield bond market saw strong inflows in May as investor sentiment improved following the gradual lifting of lockdown and countries reopened their economies.
- In terms of sectors, Chinese property names extended their gains, despite at a smaller magnitude. Overall, the higher-beta and longer-end bonds outperformed the lower beta and shorter-end bonds. The performance diverged for those Chinese industrial bonds, certain idiosyncratic risks and news headlines hit some of the names in the sector.
- We expect Chinese high yield bond market will continue to see inflows on the back of ample liquidity and policy support from the governments. We remain constructive on the Chinese high yield property sector.

Investment Strategy

- We are modestly optimistic towards Chinese high yield bonds as economic activities resume globally; ample liquidity returns to the market, and governments' policy remains supportive. We will rotate into sectors with attractive valuations and maintain the liquidity level in the portfolio.
- The Fund tactically traded in the Chinese high yield property sector to capture the volatility due to escalating tension between China and the U.S.
